Definition of Farm- According to 35 ILCS 200/1-60

Farm: “When used in connection with valuing land and buildings for an agricultural use, any property used solely for the growing and harvesting of crops; for the feeding, breeding and management of livestock; for dairying or for any other agricultural or horticultural use or combination thereof; including, but not limited to, hay, grain, fruit, truck or vegetable crops, floriculture, mushroom growing, plant or tree nurseries, orchards, forestry, sod farming and greenhouses; the keeping, raising and feeding of livestock or poultry; including dairying, poultry, swine, sheep, beef cattle, ponies or horses, fur farming, bees, fish and wildlife farming”.

From Publication 122

Cropland includes all land from which crops were harvested or hay was cut; all land in orchards, citrus groves, vineyards, and nursery greenhouse crops; land in rotational pasture, and grazing land that could have been used for crops without additional improvements; land used for cover crops, legumes, and soil improvement grasses, but not harvested and not pastured; land on which crops failed; land in cultivated summer fallow; and, idle cropland.

According to the Department of Revenue livestock is an eligible use that falls under the farm guidelines. Livestock must meet the provisions of the keeping, raising, and feeding.

From Publication 122

The boarding and training of horses (regardless of the use for which the horses are being raised) is generally considered to meet the “keeping, raising, and feeding” provisions of the farm definition pertaining to livestock. Therefore, such a tract would be eligible for a farmland assessment provided its sole use has been in this or another qualified farm use for the previous two years; and, it is not part of a primarily residential parcel.

An operating farm consist of properties that are raising a commodity. Farmland is assessed based on the soil types and its potential to produce. Each soil type is given a number that is referred to as a “Productivity index number” and a value certified from the Illinois Department of Revenue that is attached to each of those numbers.
